DEMAND MORE PAY

Four Hundred Thousand Engineers, Firemen, and Conducters Voting on Question.

NEW YORK. Jan. 24.-Engineers. conductors, and trainmen throughout the United States are now voting authority to their leaders to bargain with the roads for more pay. The result of the vote will be known in March, and if it is favorable, as the leaders confidently expect, a simultaneous demand will be made on all the roads to adopt the new wage scale.

This will be the first country-wide demand by railroad workers for more The battleground for bigger pay checks has never before extended beyond the boundaries of one section of the country-the East, the West, or the South; and even in these territorial truggles the four brotherhoods have ever made joint demands.

The demands now anticipated by the railroads will be made by almost 100,000 employes. Complete statistics have not been prepared for the 1915 fiscal year, but those for preceding years illustrate the situation.

Number of Men Involved.

the fiscal year ended June 50. 1914, the total number of railroad employes was reported as 1,695,483. That year, however, was not normal, and the number of employes in the current year probably will be larger than in 1913, when 1,815,239 persons were em ployed. In that year there were 67,026 enginemen, 70.477 firemen, 52,086 conductors, and 146,855 other trainmen, or a total of 336,141. These figures do not include returns from railways with an-

Steady Wage Increases.

The average daily compensation of engincers has increased steadily for years. Lo 1909 it was $4.44; in 1910, $4.55; in 1911 $4.59; In 1912, $5; in 1913, $5.20; in 1914, 55.71. Similar steady increases have

In other words, the demand is that the freight speed basis for wage computing shall be increased from 10 to 1215 overtime rate increased $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. When an engineer is now paid $5\frac{1}{2}$ for a hundred-mile run in ten hours or at the rate of $50$ cents an hour. The peroposed schedule would allow him $5\frac{1}{2}$ for the first eight hours, or $62\frac{1}{2}$ cents an hour, making $6.87$ for the same service now costing the railroads $5\frac{1}{2}$. This would mean a wage increase throughout the railroad industry to ashing your figures on 1913 results), the aggregate increase would exceed $515\frac{1}{2}$.
